

CEREMONIAL OF HILLAH TEMPLE

SHRINERS TO HAVE CONCLAVE
HERE NEXT SATURDAY.

MEETING AT ARMORY BUILDING

Ashland's New Armory Will Have
Strenuous Occupation Even Before
Its Completion or Formal Dedication.

That the first meetings held in the new Ashland armory will rank among the most strenuous which will mark the history of that handsome building was made manifest when it was announced that Contractor Veghte was bending every effort in a successful attempt to have it ready for the ceremonial to be held by Hillah Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Saturday afternoon and evening, June 28. With E. D. Briggs as imperial potentate, E. A. Sherwin as secretary and Otto Winter, R. H. Burns, Hugo O. Frohbach, H. C. Garnett and E. T. Staples in charge of the stunts, it was made sure that there would be something doing all the time. But when Walter E. Newcombe, C. H. Vaupel and R. P. Cornelius were placed in charge of the parade the general public was assured of a share in the fun.

There will be a business session in the new armory at 2:30 o'clock, receiving and balloting on petitions. Then comes the big parade at 4 o'clock.

The parade will start from the armory, and thought its exact line of march has not yet been determined upon, it will traverse the entire business district of the city, including Fourth street. There will be music by the Ashland band and by the Shriners' Kazoo band, as well as a notable display of Shriners and novices, including the Arab Patrol. The business houses and residences along the line of march are requested to decorate. The colors of the Shrine are black, yellow and red. The national colors will also be used profusely in decoration.

At 7:30 p. m. the ceremonial session will be held at the armory with buffet refreshments.

The following are the officials who comprise the Imperial Divan:

PICK UP A CRAZY MAN

Police Called Upon to Take Care of
Man Who Seems to Be Badly
Off in his Mind.

Chief Porter was called to Mountain avenue Friday to take charge of a man whose queer actions were causing apprehension in that part of the city. The man had ridden into town with a farmer who was bringing in a load of wood, having begged a ride from down towards Talent. He acted so queerly that the people of the neighborhood where the wood was delivered became frightened and phoned for the police. In answer to the inquiries of the chief he told incoherent and rambling stories as to his identity and where he came from. The chief brought him uptown and placed him in jail, hoping a few days' rest and good food would bring him around so that he would be able to give an account of himself.

Death of Alberta Seaman.

Miss Alberta Seaman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Seaman, died at her home in Talent this morning, aged 18 years, 4 months and 6 days. The funeral will be held at the residence Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in the Wagner Creek cemetery.

THE DOLL SHOP.

All Dolls Will Be Represented at Chautauqua Building.

Rag dolls, colored dolls, baby dolls, broken dolls, Dutch dolls, Teddy Bears, Chinese dolls, Dolly Vardens, Parisian dolls and many others will be artistically arranged in the "Old Doll Shop" so that they may find a ready sale. These dolls are represented by Ashland well-known young ladies and gentlemen, high school boys and girls and children. All are busy rehearsing each day and night so as to be truly "doll like," and when Mme. J. Sziver starts in to make "great big beautiful dolls" it's wonderful how quickly they all catch the idea. Perhaps one of the most beautiful dances of Act II is the "Garland Fan Song," in which twelve of Ashland's fairest maids are taking part, who are the Misses Rose Taverner, Olive Thorne, Ruth Turner, Marian Hodgson, Lucile Barber, Vivian Greer, Ruth Hadley, Helen Scott, Margaret Hodgson, Mary Weisenburger, Edith Cole and Marian Applegate, and when Mme. J. Sziver joins and gives her own "Oriental Veil Dance" her costumes are said to be beautiful. This is one of the few lovely specialties. "The Doll Shop" is to be given under the auspices of the W. C. I. C. in the Chautauqua building. Only one night, July 1. Remember the date. Tickets are popular prices and may be procured at Poley's and Rose Bros.

FISH HATCHERY SURE

Klamath Falls Will Get State Fish
Hatchery, Says State Game
Commissioner Stone.

Klamath Falls Herald: After nearly three years of delay and disappointment, Klamath county is at last assured of the establishment of a state fish hatchery on Spring creek. This was the announcement made by State Game Commissioner Stone that brought the hearty applause of forty or more sportsmen at a meeting held Monday evening for the purpose of effecting an organization.

The secretary of the interior has recommended that patents issue to the people to whom the land has been allotted on the reservation, and permission has been granted for the sale of the land to the state. No difficulty is anticipated over the transfer of the land, as the superintendent of the Klamath reservation has authority to make the deal.

All of the details will be arranged so that action can be taken at the next meeting of the state game and fish commission the latter part of the month. It is estimated that the hatchery and necessary buildings will cost between $8,000 and $10,000. Work will commence this summer, and everything will be in readiness to take spawn early in the spring.

ABOUT CHILDREN'S INDUSTRIAL FAIRS

ASHLAND WILL HOLD ONE NEXT FALL FOLLOWING THE PLANS OUTLINED IN THE FOLLOWING BULLETIN FROM THE O. A. C.

The appearance of this bulletin marks the opening of the second state-wide campaign for the purpose of interesting boys and girls, teachers, parents and the public at large in the wider use of industrial training in the education of the youth of Oregon. The purpose of this effort is not only to stimulate interest in industrial education, but particularly to relate the work of the public schools more intimately to the real interests of the various communities and the state at large. Back of all this is a perfectly defined purpose to continue to foster the highest ideals in education. We would emphasize the utilitarian aspect of education in order to extend the influence of its highest ideals.

We want our boys and girls to learn not only in theory, but in fact, not alone from the standpoint of the idealist, but from the standpoint of the one who toils, that labor is ennobling. We want them to know that the industries, the home and the common neighborhood are designed to enlist and reward the best intellect, the highest ideals and the full strength of strong men and women.

The campaign made last year in Oregon enlisted more interest on the part of parents, patrons and the public than anything that has ever been done in connection with our public schools. As a result, children have taken a new interest in school work and education is enjoying better support in every respect than it had previously received. If the same results follow from the work of the next few years it may safely be said that work of greater significance has never been done in Oregon.

The report of the superintendent of public instruction for 1912 summarizes the results of the first year's work in the form of statistics. These show that 88 children's fairs were held in various parts of the state; that the value of prizes offered at these fairs amounted to $20,000, and that out of a total of 125,000 school children in the state 75,000 were exhibitors. No other state in the union has done such a work.

The results of the work done last year and the experience of other states seem to justify the methods used in the past campaign; but a word in explanation may help to give a better understanding of the reasons for our methods. The contests are held and prizes offered in order to awaken the interest of our boys and girls in work that, in the past, has appeared to be too commonplace to justify any consideration. We take this method of directing the attention of our young people to the great opportunities which lie in the industries, home making and community improvement. The prizes and the contests are only means employed in order to arouse interest and enthusiasm. Enthusiasm so kindled will result, ultimately, in effort inspired by the joy of achievement only; and this in time will lead to intelligent methods, increased production, greater incomes and happier homes.

The state, by act of the last legislature, has provided for the promotion and direction of the state campaign, by authorizing the state superintendent to employ two assistants who shall devote their energies to supervising industrial work in the schools. Last year this work was financed by private subscription. While it is proper that such support should be given by the state, it would be a misfortune if it resulted in qualifying the interest taken in the work by private individuals.

If the work is to be successful this year it will require the fullest cooperation on the part of superintendents, teachers, parents, improvement organizations, business men, farmers—in short, of everyone who is in sympathy with training our boys and girls for the highest type of citizenship. It is too big a task for our young people to carry alone, or for the teachers to assume unaided. We beg for the children the help of the people of the state. Prizes are needed to encourage the young people; the overburdened teacher needs a helping hand in carrying out this new work; advice, information, instruction, support, active help is needed at every turn if the work is to be successful.

A Word to the Boys and Girls.

The work done last year by Oregon boys and girls has attracted the attention of educators and thinking people throughout the United States.

The reason that the eyes of the nation turned toward Oregon was that the people recognized that the young Oregonians were engaged in a state-wide series of contests to determine who was best in doing the things that count. The contest, as was predicted, enlisted the best efforts of thousands of the brightest and strongest boys and girls in this commonwealth. The products of the work of our young people assembled and exhibited at the fairs made one of the most inspiring displays ever assembled anywhere. The vegetables, the woodwork, the cooking, the sewing and the chickens and pigs, assembled and exhibited as the result of their thought and their work, brought forth the highest compliments that have ever been bestowed upon our young citizens.

The contests are going to be better and harder fought this year than last. Do you realize that the winners of these contests have to have brains and skill and courage? Do you realize that those who are taking part in these contests are preparing themselves for leadership in the great affairs of the world? Do you realize that this is an opportunity to get into a great service? Do you realize that the boys and girls who excel in doing these things are the ones who are considered the successful boys and girls of today and who will be the successful men and women of tomorrow?

The people of the state are more interested in this work than they were last year. The bankers, merchants, farmers, men and women everywhere are offering splendid prizes to the boys and girls who can prove that they are leaders in this great field. You will be surprised to find how much interest people will take in you if you prove that you are among the best of those who are working for better homes, better farms and more and better products for Oregon. The southern boy who raised 232 bushels of wheat on one acre, and the Oregon boy who produced over 12 bushels of potatoes from one seed potato are known and admired by thousands of people. Wake up to your opportunities and get into these contests! We shall be watching your efforts and shall expect to see your exhibit at your county fair, and also at the state fair. We want you to help us make these contests the greatest things that have ever been done in the state. We want you to help us prove that you have brains, courage and strength. Will you do it?

Boys and girls living in the city should be as keenly interested in this work as are the country boys and girls. They will be able to enter as large a proportion of these contests as will the others. Thousands of back yards and vacant lots, now useless and unsightly, can be converted into neat, well-kept poultry yards or attractive and profitable gardens. Woodwork, cooking and sewing can be done to as good advantage in the city homes as on the farm. We should like to see you prove that you are as able to do things that count as are the boys and girls of the rural districts. We shall be looking for your exhibits at the county and state fairs.

The Object.

The object of this work is twofold: First, by offering substantial prizes for the local, county and state contests, to stimulate the boys and girls to put forth their best efforts in the production of useful and valuable objects. Second, to instruct these boys and girls in the best methods of doing this work, and thus spread the gospel of efficiency in production.

Jacksonville Post: Theresa Maria Prim was born in the state of Vermont, January 29, 1839, and with her parents and a company of pioneers crossed the plains in 1853, settling in this valley. Her maiden name was Theresa Maria Stearns. She was married to E. P. Prim, late justice of the Oregon supreme court, at Jacksonville, April 23, 1857, and resided with her husband and family in this place until the early nineties when they removed to San Francisco, where they continued to reside until the judge's death, which occurred August 7, 1899.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Prim removed to Chicago, where she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Heinz, until her death last week.

3 COUNTIES IN UNITY

Siskiyou, Klamath and Jackson Counties Should Work Together for Good Roads System.

Mail Tribune: That Jackson, Siskiyou and Klamath counties should get together on a good roads program is the suggestion of County Judge William S. Worden of Klamath county, who has written along these lines to Judge Tou Velle. The latter has accepted the proposal and suggested a meeting in the near future, at which an agreed program of co-operative highway construction will be determined upon.

Judge Worden's letter follows:
Klamath Falls, June 20.
County Judge of Jackson County,
Medford, Ore.

Dear Sir: It has suggested itself to me that it might be a very good thing for the county courts of Klamath and Jackson counties to meet in public meeting at, say, Medford, and discuss affairs of mutual interest to both counties, namely, that of good roads. I am sure the commissioners would be glad to go to Medford with me to meet your court, and I believe we could bring forty or fifty good boosters with us. If you think that such a meeting would do our common cause any good and that later we could be favored by a visit from you, I believe it would be apropos for you to invite us to come to Medford with as many of our friends as we can bring.

It seems to me that the counties of Klamath, Jackson and Siskiyou could well afford to get very close together in the matter of road construction and other things; in fact, I fail to see any competition between the three, and why there should not be the most friendly feeling and get-together spirit among these counties.

This letter is a desire on our part to start such a movement, and we shall be glad to hear from you at your early convenience.

We believe firmly that the southern tier of counties in Oregon should get busy and do things together. We are very glad to know that you have such good prospects of getting the California highway to your line and shall be glad to assist you. All we ask is that you do your part toward the building of a good road from Jackson county to Klamath county, and wish to assure you that we will meet you at the line.

If you care to further this movement and believe that it is wise, I shall be glad to hear from you relative thereto.

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM S. WORDEN,
County Judge.

A Big Head of Lettuce.

A. Dahuff was showing a head of lettuce the last of the week which was grown on his lots at 440 Palm avenue, which shows what the granite soil of this section will grow without irrigation. The head was nearly as large as an ordinary head of cabbage, and was grown without irrigation.

AT MARSHFIELD, ORE.

The F. E. Conway Company Planning
Big Operations for the Coming Summer.

F. E. Conway is in Marshfield. The Evening Record has a column write-up about his proposed operations and calls him "a real home builder" clear across its front page. Mr. Conway writes that he has already contracted for a number of houses and will build some fifty or sixty there this summer.

Mr. Conway is highly pleased with the present prospects at Marshfield. He says it is one town that has not enough houses to accommodate the people already there.

The Tidings does not hesitate to commend the Conway company to the people of Marshfield. It is a company that does things. They build good houses and sell them on the installment plan. They are real live wires and Marshfield has done well in interesting Mr. Conway in the town. The Conway company still have a number of unsold lots here. They write that the large operations contemplated there will require much capital and he proposes to turn his lots loose here at a very low price so that the revenue can be used in operations there.
